Who we are

The International Alliance for Women (TIAW) is a global charitable foundation dedicated to the economic empowerment and advancement of women all over the globe.

Founded in 1980, TIAW is recognized as a 501(c)3 charitable organization in the USA. The organization has an international impact, representing women and networks from all continents.

What we do

Our commitment is to the ‘inclusive economy’ – uniting, supporting, and promoting women and their chosen networks across all continents, which in turn supports and strengthens the global economic fabric.

TIAW is for businesswomen who wish to not only network and unite to help each other, but also to help other women in need.

The “why” of what we do

Around the world, women experience non-existent to very low levels of asset ownership, formal sector employment, decision-making power and economic opportunity and earning compared to men.

These gaps constrain economic growth and development.

Microcredit

Our signature program is Microcredit. These loans help women to start and expand businesses, as well as to modify their business models in response to the global pandemic.

We also provide mentoring and funding for financial literacy training to ensure that businesses receiving loans are sustainable.

Benefits of microcredit

Microcredit plays a critical role in empowering women, helps deliver newfound respect, independence, and participation for women in their communities and in their households.
